

Explanation of Contact Lens Exam and Fitting Fees

A comprehensive eye exam includes a spectacle prescription and overall eye health evaluation; it does not include the evaluation of contact lenses and their effects on eye health. Most insurance companies do not cover the extra time that the contact lens portion of the eye exam takes, so a contact lens examination will include a contact lens evaluation fee. Below describes the different types of fees you may be responsible for.

If you are currently wearing contact lenses and there are no changes made to the brand or type of lens you wear, you are still required to have a contact lens evaluation annually in order to maintain a valid prescription. The cost for the annual contact lens evaluation is $25. Prescription changes are included in this fee.

If you are refit for contact lenses into a different brand or type of lens, a refitting fee is charged between $39 and $59 depending on the type of lens (spherical, toric, or multifocal).

If you do not wear contacts currently and are interested in wearing them, a contact lens fitting is required. Fitting fees range from $109 to $129, depending on the type of lens needed and the complexity of the fit. Fitting fees include training, all contact lens progress checks needed in order to determine fit, along with all trials needed during the fitting process. Specialty rigid contact lens fittings are determined on an individual basis.

We offer routine contact lens checks at no charge for the six months following your exam; thereafter contact lens related visits are the patient's responsibility.
